

Travel Into the Sea with an Immersive Exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry

The museum's newest exhibit, The Blue Paradox, offers a creative look inside the Ocean with an educational purpose: diving into its major pollution problem.

Chicago, January 22, 2024-The Museum of Science and Industry is currently showcasing a brand-new exhibit for all ages about the current state of our oceans.

The exhibit is both an inviting and investigative project demonstrating a real-world problem affecting the world. It additionally offers the opportunity to learn about solving this catastrophe by providing information on how to move forward with action and save our oceans.

- 'The Blue Paradox' Exhibit is a Free-Timed Entry with General Admission Ticket
- General Admission Ticket Prices for Adults: $25.95
- General Admission Ticket Prices for Children ages 3-11: $14.95
- Museum Hours: Open Every day from 9:30AM to 4:00PM
- Address: 5700 S. DuSable Lake Shore Drive

Note: There will be Free Days for Illinois residents on January 22-24, 28-31, and on February 5-8, 11-15, 20-22, and 26-29.

Learn more about the exhibit and tickets here

ABOUT THE COMPANY:

The Museum of Science and Industry, located in the city of Chicago, sets its mission as an interactive experience with a variety of permanent and limited exhibits sparking interest and leading youth to education. Discover the world of science and make connections with peers. The science museum offers educational and Learning Lab programs, unique events, tours, laboratories, and lectures.

CONTACT:

Name: Ashley Maldonado
Mobile: (872)-202-8332
Email: amald23@uic.edu